

In the marmalade forest, between the make believe trees, in a cottage cheese cottage lives Albi the racist Dragon. Part six. And so all of the angry villagers gathered their pitchforks and torches and chased Albi the Racist dragon to a very dark and scary cave. The cave was so dark and so scary that Albi started to cry, dragon tears, which as we all know turn into jelly beans! Suddenly Albi felt a small and who the badly boy from “What are I thought yesterday!” racistly. able to use strength to you merely figured me” touch on his tail should it be but burned Albanian the day before. you doing here? I killed you said Albi quite “No Albi I was my remaining crawl to safety, scarred and dis-laughed the boy.

“Why are you crying so?” asked the boy. “I’m crying because all the villagers chased me into this dark and scary cave, I think it’s because I’m so racist...get your hand off my tail you’ll make it dirty.” Said Albi. “No Albi,” responded the boy,” it’s not because of your racism that they chased you here, they chased me here too after I became all disfigured like this They just don’t like you and I, because we are different to them”. And with that Albi cried a single tear that turned into a jelly bean all the colors of the rainbow, and suddenly, Albi wasn’t racist anymore. so they sat in the cave and ate bubblegum pie. YUM! Albi the racist...well not anymore, Dragon.
